

Introducing Eric Ward

Eric brings a variety of senior management skills and consulting experience across several industries.

Originally from W.A. Eric began his career drawing engineering, construction and geographical plans for the aerial survey industry. He quickly became a senior project manager providing plans for underwater drilling and the building of hydro-electric dams.

Outside of work, his competitive spirit for endurance events and white water kayaking brought him to Victoria, skiing became a passion for Eric and he stayed.

Looking for more challenge in his work environment Eric became an owner / operator of a travel company and established himself as a key figure in the booming Adventure Travel Industry. Eric's achievements grew with the industry and he moved on to become Australian Operations Manager for Peregrine Adventures. Between 1983 - 1993 Eric was influential in keeping Australian adventure at the leading edge of a competitive tourism trend. His hands on style enabled him to personally research, market and lead many of the ground breaking adventure tours.

Setting new goals Eric moved into management consulting. Again he was at the forefront of a growing industry that provided Outdoor Leadership modules. Numerous companies have since benefited from Eric's unique design and facilitation of corporate Teambuilding and Leadership Learning programs.

Empowered with a wealth of practical experience and high achievement Eric is continuing his quest to help people in business. His demonstrated track record of performance, leadership and change management experience complement his facilitation and presentation skills in bringing leading edge solutions that are designed to improve productivity, leadership and team effectiveness.
